

FREE
Drumming
Report

7 Tips To Master Playing The Drums

Facebook.com/DrummingWithSteve

Introduction

First of all I want to thank you for downloading this FREE Drumming Report!

If you want to learn how to play the drums, you need to have a good reason why you want to. You have to know what motivates you to get drum lessons. You also have to find it very interesting to join drum lesson classes.

If you always dreamed about playing this instrument but you never got the chance to do so when you were younger, then you will see that drum lessons are for everybody who is willing to learn.

Whatever your reasons are for learning how to play the drums, you have to remember that you alone can identify to your goals and you alone have the power to achieve those goals you set.

So, here are some tips that will help you master the art of playing the drums. By following these tips, you can be sure that you will be able to keep your enthusiasm alive and more importantly, have fun learning to play this cool instrument.

To your drumming success!

Steve

This is me practicing on my Roland TD10 V-Drum.

Tip 1 - Get Started

Obviously, the first step is to get started with this one of a kind hobby. Search for reliable music schools around your area or you can also find a professional who will be able to give you private lessons. Or, you can also enroll in qualified online websites that offer drum lessons.

Whichever you choose, make sure that you choose one that works for you and one that you are comfortable with.

Tip 2 – Identify Your Needs

The next step is to identify what you need. Visit your nearest music store and look around for a drum kit.

Get a professional drummer to advise you on what kind of drum set you need. You also need to get advice on the type of drum sticks you need as a beginner drummer.

By knowing about what is required of you, you will then be able to find it easy to get the things you need to start playing the drums.

Tip 3 – Listen To Music

You also have to keep in mind that learning how to play the drums is not just about dexterity and the coordination of your hand and feet movements but it is also about using your listening skills.

Listen to as many different music styles as possible, so have your radio turned on the whole day. Also listen to your favourite drummers and try to imitate there sound, feel and timing.

Tip 4 – Be Patient

You also have to remember that learning how to play the drums takes time and patience.

You need to go through the process. Besides, you can't expect to play the drums just like Lars Ulrich of Metallica or Travis Barker of Blink 182 after just one or two lessons.

It takes years of hard work in order for you to play like these guys and really rock hard.

Tip 5 – Study Hard

You need to study and review the lessons that have been given to you.

By exercising the lessons you learned, you will eventually master it and keep your skills fresh.

Focus on studying things you don't can. Study technique but not too much.

Tip 6 – Practice, Practice, Practice

The sixth tip is that you should remember to practice.

You may know about theories but if you don't apply it, nothing will happen to your drumming.

It's better to practice every day for 15 minutes than once a week for 2 hours.

Tip 7 – Stay Motivated

Lastly, stay motivated. This may be the simplest to do but it's actually the hardest thing to maintain.

Some people give up after a few lessons because they simply can't play the drums like they wanted to in the beginning.

Conclusion

By keeping these things in mind, you will be able to master the art of playing drums. With these 7 tips, you will be well on your way to becoming a great drummer.

On my Facebook fan page <http://facebook.com/DrummingWithSteve> you'll also find daily posts filled with valuable tips, tricks, product reviews, lessons, news, articles, video's and other great drumming stuff.

So stay tuned and don't forget to have good fun while playing drums!

